

LMS365 has really helped us to provide all content on a central platform.

– Valbona Elshani, Head of Strategic Corporate Development & Communication

How did LMS365 assist you in automating administrative processes more effectively and in making employee training more efficient and structured?

Amidst digitalization, LMS365 helped us consolidate the flood of apps, including all learning content and schedules, into a central system. This ensures a clear overview of knowledge management.

How did the implementation of LMS365 help promote knowledge exchange among employees in the training routine?

The location- and time-independent learning has definitely brought about a positive change in the learning process, which also has a positive impact on team learning as a whole. Additionally, the exchange of information about courses and exercises also benefits from what is known as collective knowledge. Furthermore, LMS365 enables subject matter experts to effortlessly create courses and evolve into learning coaches themselves.

How has LMS365 impacted the development of the reviewability and evaluation of your training projects since its introduction?

Thanks to the LMS365 learner dashboard, we benefit from a high level of transparency. Here, we have a great overview of courses that have already been successfully completed as well as ongoing activities.

You have also opted for the training videos from 365 Akademie. The selected package also includes learning content on other Microsoft 365 tools such as Teams, OneDrive, and SharePoint. What do you hope to achieve in the medium term with this specific standard content?

We hope to enhance the digital skills of our employees and empower them by providing the opportunity for self-directed learning. The explanatory videos are excellent for this purpose, as they allow individuals to deepen their knowledge by simultaneously experimenting with the app.
